About me

I define myself as a passionate and organized person. I am rigorous, efficient and I appreciate quality work.

I am constantly learning about new technologies, and I undertake new personal projects in order to deepen my knowledge as well as to be able to propose solutions adapted to the work.

I particularly like working in a team but I also know how to be independent when necessary.

I thrive not only by working, but also by bringing value to the company, in which the ability to face challenges, recognize and rectify mistakes and be tenacious is essential.
